Connecting the mobile broadband usb stick.The invention relates to a self-locking end cover for a d.c. motor having a cylindrical shell with a hub rotatably mounted therein. The invention relates further to a d.c. motor having a cylindrical shell with a hub rotatably mounted therein, and to an end cover arranged on an end of the shell, which end is open. The invention also relates to an electric motor and a fan. Sealed bearings are usually used for the motor shafts of d.c. motors. However, the problems connected with seals are many, and expensive maintenance is involved in respect of such bearings. An object of the present invention is to provide a seal-free construction of the motor shaft end of a d.c. motor having a cylindrical shell and a hub rotatably mounted therein. Another object of the invention is to provide a motor with a simple construction which is both simple to assemble and easy to maintain. The invention in its broadest aspect is characterized in that the end cover has at least one discoid sheet metal part which is attached to the shell and has a bearing ring arranged on the inside surface thereof, and in that the bearing ring is seated on an inside surface of the hub by way of a ring portion. According to the invention, the end cover is constructed as a single piece from a discoid sheet metal part which is attached to the shell and has a bearing ring arranged on the inside surface thereof. The bearing ring is seated on an inside surface of the hub by means f678ca9f9e
